23 Airplanes To Fly Over City Tomorrow

Today

Our Wonder Age.
Work of Power Invisible.
Will the Talkies Teach?
Big Business Needed.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.
(Copyright, 1929, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

ALMOST half way around the world, with two stops from Friedrichshafen to Tokio, 6,500 miles in one hundred and two hours, skirting the Arctic, flying over cold Siberia, average speed sixty-four miles per hour. Such is the achievement of the Zeppelin, and the magnificently efficient German people.

TRULY it was written "it hath not yet been shown what we shall be."

Who, reading of Elijah and his chariot of fire twenty years ago, would have imagined that Zeppelin flight around the world?

DR. ECKENER, an earnest German scientist, first among the princes of the air, his son, sharing responsibility of navigation; a British nobleman fond of excitement, a trained journalist, recording new world history; the son of American millions enjoying the attention attracted by other men's achievements.

All these and many more, traveling together through the clouds, below a giant bag suspended by gas, driven around the world in defiance of gravitation, by another gas exploding.

AND, consider that all the forces engaged in this great achievement are forces invisible.

You cannot see the human thought and genius that created the flying ship.

You cannot see the gas that holds the ship aloft in the air, which is another gas, and invisible.

You cannot see the gas that drives the engine.

Everything important involved in this flight is invisible to our eyes.

Yet foolish man will say "show me the wisdom that rules this universe. I believe only what I can see."

WHAT will talking pictures do for us?

Everybody knows what silent pictures have done for human faces and clothing.

Arabs of the desert go to the movies and buy American ready-made clothes. Young women from 12 years up imitate Miss Pickford's curls, or Miss Garbo's X-ray gazing.

WILL talking pictures develop good voices and cause adaption of correct speech?

Millions that have seen silent pictures every day endeavor to look like their screen heroes and heroines. Will they try now to SOUND like them?

It is not possible to exaggerate the effect that talking pictures will have upon the speech of the nation.

IT TAKES really "big business" to do things needed in this generation.

The American Telephone company, tired of relying on uncertain, crowded radio lanes, will run a cable under the Atlantic from New York to London for telephone messages exclusively.

This one enterprise, including incidental cost, buildings in London, etc., will cost $200,000,000.

'ELECTRICIANS' RIFLE HOMES

Two Vine Street Residences are Visited by Culprits.

Two unidentified thieves, posing as electric light company employees, rifled at least two Vine street homes yesterday at noon, according to police reports and escaped with $15 in cash.

AIR TOURISTS ARE DUE HERE AT 3:40 P. M.

Party Comes to East Liverpool From Alliance.

GO TO WARREN

Goodwill Tour Arranged by Ohio C. of C.

Approximately 23 airplanes of various types and sizes will fly over East Liverpool at 3:40 o'clock tomorrow afternoon as part of the first Ohio Good Will Air Tour which is being sponsored by the Ohio Chamber of Commerce.

Tour Started Today.

The planes will come to East Liverpool from Alliance where the pilots will take luncheon as guests of the Alliance Aircraft company. The fleet will leave Alliance at 3:15 o'clock, pass over the Chamber of Commerce airport in Madison township and then come to East Liverpool. After a few minutes circling over the city the planes will then leave for Warren where they are scheduled to appear at 4:10 o'clock, passing over the airport again en route to the Trumbull county metropolis.

The tour began at 9 o'clock this morning when the planes hopped off from Norton field. Tonight will be spent at Portsmouth, tomorrow night at Marion and Friday night at Lorain. The tour will end at Cleveland Saturday morning.

Lloyd D. Bower, of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce, is the tour director. Dewey M. Noyes will be pilot of the flagship; Robert McConnell, official time keeper; William McConnell, pilot of the headquarters ship or "lookout man"; Theodore Hubbell, navigator on the flagship.

The purpose of the tour is to promote and foster progress and development of the aeronautical industry in Ohio; to acquaint the people of the state with the progress already made; to create interest and enthusiasm for aeronautical development in communities and among individuals; and to inspect air markings and landing facilities established and proposed in connection with the campaign which the Ohio Chamber of Commerce has had under way for two years.

Ample parking space will be available for automobiles at the Chamber of Commerce airport tomorrow. Airport promoters announced today.

Plans Hoff-Off.

MUNICIPAL AIRPORT, COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 21.—(INS.)—Undaunted by the crashing of one ship, "Little Miss Dayton" last night, the 23 airplanes of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce's good will air tour hopped off here today on the first leg of the state-wide flight.

The last ship, the "Headquarters" plane which is as luxuriously equipped as any railroad parlor car, cleared the runway shortly before 9:30 o'clock.

W. A. Simms, pilot of the "Little Miss Dayton," cracked up last night in making a landing without light here. His plane was almost completely wrecked. He, and his one passenger, escaped without hurt.

They boarded another plane this morning and were with the fleet of man-made birds when it hopped off.

The itinerary today included three stops. At Troy members of the tour inspected an airplane factory. A brief stop was made at Hamilton for lunch and the tour will land at Cincinnati this afternoon. Prior to the hop off for Portsmouth here the first overnight stop will be made.

Enroute there, the planes will fly over Greenville, Dayton and Middletown.

KENTON, O., Aug. 21.—(INS.)—Harry Brown, of Springfield, who used a railroad rail as a pillow for his weary head yesterday, today is continuing on his "hitch-hiking" way northward with severe cuts and bruises as a reminder of his narrow escape from death.

He was struck by a north-bound freight on the Big Four railroad south of here and was hurled unconscious into a ditch. The train crew gave him a "lift" to the hospital here where a deep gash in his head was sewed with several stitches.

SNOOK GIVEN NUMBER 60,656 IN OHIO PEN

Ex-College Professor Sleeps Well in "Death Row."

ARISES EARLY

First Meal Consists Mainly of Beef Stew.

OHIO STATE PENITENTIARY, COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 21.—(INS.)—Convict number 60,656, nee Dr. James Howard Snook, slept soundly during his first night in "death row," his guards told International News Service today.

Remains Calm.

The debonair former college professor, who slew his "love-nest" sweetheart, Miss Theora Hix, an attractive coed at the Ohio State university, arose early this morning.

The guards said the man, who is sentenced to "burn" November 23, the day after Thanksgiving, is his usual calm, self, apparently unimpressed and unshaken by his fate.

Snook was incarcerated in death row yesterday morning, less than half an hour after Judge Henry L. Scarlett had sentenced him to die for the fiendish hammer-and-knife slaying which he admittedly committed.

His first meal in the "aisle of the doomed" consisted mainly of beef stew.

LOSES LIFE

ST. JOHNS, Newfoundland, Aug. 21.—(INS.)—Hope that the two Swiss airmen, Oscar Kaesser and Kurt Luescher, might survive their attempted east-to-west, non-stop flight over the Atlantic ocean, vanished today with the dawn of another day of heavy fog banks over the western Atlantic.

Nothing has been heard from the two young airmen since they passed over the Azores early Monday evening, notwithstanding the close watch maintained by all coastal stations, wireless stations along the coast of Nova Scotia and Newfoundland, and ships in the approximate path of the trans-Atlantic plane.

The watch was continued through the night at the airfields in this vicinity, although even virtually no hope was held out that the fliers might still be in the air.

At 11 o'clock this morning, (Eastern daylight time) 56 and a half hours had elapsed since Kaesser and Luescher hopped off from the Lisbon airfield.

Their single-motored Farman carried a fuel supply calculated to last 34 hours under normal flying conditions, and 44 hours under the best possible conditions.

The one slim hope held out for the two young Swiss was that they might have been able to launch a small rubber lifeboat which they carried in their plane, after their descent to the surface of the ocean. This hope was slight, due to the hazards of attempting a landing on the water with a land plane, and the open question as to the length of time the collapsible lifeboat would remain afloat on any but the calmest of seas.

DAHLIA SOCIETY MEETS FRIDAY

The judges will consider the largest and most perfect specimens. There is no charge for entering flowers or fruits and vegetables in the exhibit.

Ray Baum, instructor of physical education and science at the Forest, Ohio, high school with breach of promise, Miss Elmore Campbell, of that village, today had filed a petition in common pleas court here asking "heart balm" of $10,000 and costs of prosecution.

SWISS FLIERS BELIEVED LOST IN ATLANTIC

Nothing Heard of Plane Since Passing Azores.

WATCH IS KEPT

Craft Carried Fuel Supply to Last 44 Hours.

ST. JOHNS, Newfoundland, Aug. 21.—(INS.)—Hope that the two Swiss airmen, Oscar Kaesser and Kurt Luescher, might survive their attempted east-to-west, non-stop flight over the Atlantic ocean, vanished today with the dawn of another day of heavy fog banks over the western Atlantic.

FRENCHMAN TO ATTEMPT HOP

Dieudonne Coste to Start for New York Tomorrow.

LE BOURGET FIELD, Paris, Aug. 21.—(INS.)—Dieudonne Coste, famous French trans-Atlantic flyer landed here today after a flight from Villa Coublay and announced his intention of hopping off for New York tomorrow morning at 5 o'clock if the weather permits.

Coste's ambition to be the first airmen to make a flight from this city to New York has not been subdued by the fact that he failed on a previous attempt a month ago and even at this hour two young Swiss fliers who hopped off at Lisbon for New York on Monday are missing and are believed to be dead—somewhere in the Atlantic.

Coste and fellow airmen, Le Bri, made a flight over the south Atlantic to South America, in 1927. When Coste and a mechanic hopped off here for New York six weeks ago another trans-Atlantic flight was attempted simultaneously by two Polish fliers, Major Idzikowski and Major Kubala. The Polish attempt ended in tragedy when the Polish plane, Marshal Plisudski, crashed upon one of the Azores Islands and Idzikowski was killed.

Third Man Escapes When He Steps Back.

TRUCK BLAMED

Victims Dead When Reached by Rescuers.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 21.—(INS.)—Two workmen were buried alive in a sewer cave-in, near here today. A wall of 17 feet of earth buried them under tons of dirt. Both were dead when rescuers reached them.

Rescuers Handicapped.

The victims are: Angelo Copocchia, 21, of Columbus, and Charles Carpenter, 28, of Detroit, Mich. The latter had just started to work on the excavation this morning.

The men were laboring on the sanitary sewer project at James Pike and East Main streets, which is on the outskirts of Columbus. Another man, Sherman Harris, of Detroit, narrowly escaped death in the cave-in. He gave a vivid account of the tragedy, relating:

"I was working with the two fellows in the sewer. All at once I saw the sides of the excavation bulging toward us. I stepped back. The other two fellows didn't have a chance. They were working with their backs to the cave-in. 'I yelled, but it was too late. They were buried alive!'

"I heard a truck pass a moment before the cave-in. That must have caused the slides to give in and fall."

Rescue workers were handicapped by the depth of the sewer and for a time it was feared a second cave-in would result.

The dead laborers were erecting braces so that it would be safe to work in the pit, which was about eight feet wide and 50 feet long.

COLLEGE HILL BOROUGH MUST PAY $8,500 JUDGMENT, COURT RULES

New Trial in Damage Case Brought by Henry Goff of Beaver Falls for Injuries is Overruled by Judge Reader.

BEAVER, Pa., Aug. 21.—Judge Frank E. Reader, in an opinion handed down yesterday afternoon, overruled a new trial in the case of Henry W. Goff of Beaver Falls against the borough of College Hill and Frank A. Bowers of Beaver Falls. The court also refused the motion of the defendant Bowers for judgment notwithstanding the verdict and directed that judgment be entered in favor of the plaintiff and against the defendant on the verdict.

However, the court in the opinion granted the motion of College Hill for judgment notwithstanding the verdict, ruling that the municipality could not be held liable for the negligence of its employee or the damage caused by its truck while the truck was being used in a governmental function.

Goff was badly injured in an accident on upper Seventh avenue, Beaver Falls, October 11, 1926, when struck by the College Hill borough truck, after it had collided with the defendant Bowers' car, driven by Mrs. Bowers. Goff entered suit against the borough of College Hill and Frank A. Bowers. The case was tried in court and the jury returned a verdict of $8,500 in favor of the plaintiff and against both the defendants.

TWO RUNAWAYS TAKEN HOME

Armstrong County Boys Picked up By Beaver Police.

MIDLAND, Pa., Aug. 21.—Belief that life in an industrial town would be more enjoyable than the routine of farm life, Woodrow Kneppsheld and James Davis, 17-year-old youths of near Cochrans Mill, Armstrong county, decided to leave their homes early Monday. A neighbor boy drove them to Vandergrift, where they boarded a train for Pittsburgh and then proceeded to Midland in an unsuccessful search for work.

Walking through Beaver at 11 o'clock Monday night, the lads were picked up by the Beaver police. The father of the Davis lad reached Beaver yesterday and the boys, thoroughly cured of their wanderlust after a night in the borough building, listened to the fatherly advice of Chief of Police Harry Anderson and Secretary of Council E. N. Tomlinson and were ready and willing to return to the wooded slopes of the Armstrong county farms.

Credited with at least 25 robberies, eight youthful members of a band known as the "Shaven Heads" were recently arrested at Marseilles, France.

July Construction Record

Total construction contracts awarded during July in the thirty-seven states east of the Rocky Mountains amounted to $652,436,100, the F. W. Dodge Corporation monthly report indicates. These states include about 91 per cent of the total construction volume of the nation, and the figures show that July had the second largest monthly total on record, and an increase of 12 per cent over the total for the corresponding month of last year.

July construction contracts in the Pittsburgh area—which includes Ohio—amounted to an increase of two per cent over the total volume of contracts awarded herein in July of last year, and an increase of 13 per cent over the volume of contracts awarded in June, 1929.

Public utilities, industrial construction and home building all showed a tremendous growth in the Pittsburgh-Ohio area for last month, the Dodge survey discloses, and the notation is made that contemplated work during July in this district amounted to more than $59,000,000.

This building program throughout the nation represents a healthy condition, economists say, and is evidence that working conditions as winter approaches are more stable than many anticipated. The forecast last January that the prosperity trend would continue throughout the fall and winter is being borne out by reports from all lines of business and industry.

Building was slower all season than any other line of activity, but the July figures indicate a revival which may push construction statistics to new levels for August and bring about an increase in this line for early fall and winter.

The Coming Air Caravan

The coming of the Ohio good will air caravan to this city tomorrow may be taken as something of a compliment alike to the local airport and the enterprise of the men backing such an airport.

The chief purpose of the three-day tour of 1,109 miles, during which the caravan will fly over thirty-five cities and stop at eleven, is to stimulate interest in aviation and augment appreciation of its possibilities as a medium for transportation and travel, and this purpose could hardly be achieved unless at the same time there was demonstration of the safety of air travel. For this reason, one of the requirements of the management of the tour is the safety of airports.

The caravan will be made up of over a score of planes of different powers, sizes, makes and designs, some of them replicas of planes which have become world famous, some of them of powers and sizes never seen here before. It will be such an air display as the great mass of the people of this city and county have never seen and may not again see for some years to come.

Tribute To Mr. Edison

That is a fine tribute which Mr. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., pays to Mr. Thomas Alva Edison in a letter to Edward L. Bernays, of New York, concerning the fiftieth anniversary celebration on October 21 of the Edison incandescent lamp.

"Thomas A. Edison's invention of the incandescent lamp fifty years ago," writes Mr. Rockefeller, "was much more than a scientific invention. It was the beginning of a new era in which electricity, a natural force having infinite possibilities of usefulness, was to be harnessed by man and made to serve him in countless ways. This celebration of 'Light's Golden Jubilee' leads us to reflect upon the blessings which the electric light has brought to millions upon millions of people throughout the world."

Such an utterance coming from some quarters might not impress us greatly, but coming from the younger Rockefeller it carries weight. He is an able man, in his way one of the ablest in the country. He is a deep student of the past as well as of the affairs of today. He probably is in closer touch with the entire world and its affairs than any man of the times with the possible exception of President Hoover. He never speaks rashly, and never without thought. When such a man gives credit to another for bringing about a new era, and that era the most wonderful one in scientific and mechanical ways in all history, it must be accepted as its full worth. It is a tribute which should warm the heart of Thomas A. Edison, thus recognized as one of man's greatest benefactors.

Getting Rich—First Lesson

John S. Thorne, of New York, opened a savings account in 1819 with the Bank for Savings, in that city. On Aug. 15, he deposited $10 and added $5 more on Aug. 26. Thus was started the oldest savings account in the United States.

No withdrawals had ever been made from the account until Aug. 15, 1929, when his heirs discovered it and were able to take home $2,773.86, an increase of $2,763.86 over the original deposit. Mathematicians may compute it for themselves, if they doubt. John S. Thorne did not benefit by his $15 deposit in the year 1819, but no one can deny that he took a very direct way to create a small estate out of practically nothing. He never missed the $15, but his heirs would feel acutely the loss of more than $2,500.

Saltin' away a little bit from day to day is the way to save money. The millionaire's fortune wasn't gathered in one day or one year, nor was the great castle built from one rock. It is the first lesson in acquiring wealth and the hardest to learn.

HASKIN LETTER DAILY

By Frederic J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 21.—The day's work is the most important thing in the lives of most people; it is even a task for some people to think up a way to loaf. The bureau of labor statistics of the United States department of labor devotes its energies to studies of all aspects of labor and now has taken over a new job which is of interest and importance to employers and workers from the economic point of view and to everyone from the humanitarian standpoint. The new job is a continuing study of what is called labor turnover in the factories of the United States. By turnover is meant the flow of new employees into jobs and the withdrawal from their jobs of those who have held them.

Because cooperative work already has been done with the bureau there are in hand certain data for the last decade and these are gratifying in that they show a steady decline in the labor turnover, this meaning that jobs have been more steadily available on the one hand and the employees have been steadier on their jobs on the other, the whole painting a picture of an increasingly stabilized labor situation.

These figures for the last ten years are in hand because certain agencies, other than the bureau, have cooperated with it in making studies in their territories. The results of the studies have proved so valuable that the government bureau now has taken over the entire task and expects to extend its researches to cover the entire country.

The public, semi-private, and private agencies which have helped in this work in the past, laying the foundation for the larger task now addressed, are The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company; Associated Industries of Massachusetts; Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce; Brown University; Connecticut Industrial Council; Employers Association of New Haven; Illinois Industrial Commission; Indiana University; Manufacturers Association of the City of Bridgeport; Manufacturers Association of Meriden; Ohio State University; Rutgers University; University of Denver, and the University of Michigan.

While the columns of figures look cold and forbidding, they must be read with the thought in mind that they reflect human hopes and fears, aspirations, and disappointments. They also reflect the times through which the country was passing.

Let us take the record of the workers who quit their jobs. It will be remembered that 1919 was a year of tremendous boom and the first half of 1920 as well. Prices were soaring, manufacturers had more orders than they could fill. Wages were high and employers were bidding back and forth for labor. A job was very easy to get. Every available man was snapped up at better and better wages. So for 1919 we have the high quitting rate of 69.75 per cent and for 1920, 100.9 per cent. A number of men in 1920 equal to the entire factory force quit their jobs in order to take better ones.

Although, in such a feverish time, a vast amount of very poor jobs were being turned over, the rate of discharge was only 13.4 in 1919 and 12.8 in 1920. Employers could not afford to let their men go. Lay-offs were 7.2 and 9.7 per cent for the two years respectively.

Beginning in the summer of 1920 the crash came. Prices came tumbling down, stores had inventories very much too large, orders were canceled right and left. The employment situation was very different. Although 100.9 per cent of the average number of workers in the factories voluntarily quit their jobs in the last boom year, jobs looked a good deal better and more worth hanging onto in 1921. The 100.9 figure dropped abruptly to only 26.7 per cent. The discharge rate fell too to only 4.2 per cent but the lay-off rate rose to 21.5 per cent, the highest figure for the decade studied.

The recovery from the depression of 1920-21 was very rapid because of the wise operation of the federal reserve system in controlling credit and properly distributing it as it now is seeking to do in connection with the tremendous stock exchange speculation; and because of the fundamental resourcefulness of the nation. Resignations from jobs began to increase again reaching 51 per cent in 1922 and 74.9 in 1923.

From then on the percentages dwindle gradually or hold rather steady with scarcely any up and down. For 1928, the last full year, the quitting rate only 4.8 per cent and the lay-off rate but 6.5 per cent.

These figures, set against the figures for the rate at which new workers were added to factory staffs, show then that in 1919 labor turnover was 90.3 per cent, in 1920 had risen to 123.4 per cent but last year was down to only 37.1 per cent.

In enlarging the scope of this work the bureau of labor statistics expects to work out special studies showing the turnover in the various industries. The figures used here represent the labor turnover in all kinds of factories. The project statistics will reveal the situation in the textile industry, the steel industry, the building trades, and so on.

Ritzy Rosalie

Rosalie is having Penelope and several other girls fend off for a bridge tea, and she is very appropriately dressed for this occasion. The lounging pajamas themselves are of flat crepe, in apple green, and the motifs are hand painted with actual size playing cards in their natural colors. The card designs appear on both the jumper and coat. The three packages Rosalie has are three bridge prizes. First prize is a little leather golf bag containing six silver highball mixers in the form of golf sticks; second prize is a set of sterling silver salt and pepper shakers in the form of golf balls; and the booby prize is a novel golf scorer which looks like a watch. You press the stem down to record your strokes, and numbers appear in the round holes on the dial, with the total score appearing in a hole in the center. Since Rosalie's friends are all ardent golf enthusiasts she is sure that the prizes, even the booby, will be very acceptable.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—Managing editors of metropolitan newspapers declare there are more applications for the job of dramatic critic than for any other post on the staff. Everybody is writing a play longer for a seat on the aisle to give them an appraising once over.

With few exceptions it is the most highly paid newspaper writing assignment—the morning field paying larger wages than the evening as a rule. This is because the task requires more speed and must be sustained through a very trying period while pressmen wait.

Few newspaper jobs require such tricky thinking and quick writing. Morning critics face a dead line and not to have their copy in type in time means it will not appear. They are always seated on the aisle far down in front of the house.

As a general thing a first night becomes an extended performance and rarely are they able to remain for the final curtain. They police the edge of their chairs, hats in hand, overcoats over their arms and glancing nervously at watches. A few minutes before 11 they start out like shots.

Many have typewriters in midtown hotels where they grind out their critiques and speed them off to editorial shops by waiting and wisecracking Mercury from the A. D. T. The morning critic salaries range from $10,000 a year to that of the night critic at $3,000.

Reviewers for afternoon journals have more leisure to prepare their reports. While there are a few stripplings among the critical herd, the majority are mature and middle aged. A few indeed are white haired from the snow of many dramatic winters.

The choicest seats are usually assigned to the morning crew. The afternoon men are next favored at the edge of their chairs, hats in hand, overcoats over their arms and glancing nervously at watches. A few minutes before 11 they start out like shots.

George Jean Nathan, innocently enough, broadcasts a forthcoming "sour notice." If the show does not appeal to his expert notion of dramatic maturity he sidles up under the cover of darkness in the middle of the second act. Rarely does he remain for the finish of a play.

By some clever weaving in and out—I'm a sketch as a clever in and out weaver—I was able to reach the center of a huge crowd suddenly massed on the west side of Times Square yesterday afternoon. The tumult was inspired by a soap box gospeller holding a banner reading: "A Decent Woman Will Never Be Caught Smoking a Cigarette." And a companionate neck cramer must have been the horrible example. For she was a beautiful young girl puffing a cigarette.

Other Editors Say

America Enlivens the World.

The other day there was something of a panic among employers of Brussels because the Belgian labor supply had seemingly suddenly dried up. Industrial leaders, like every one aggrieved, wanted to find some one or something on which to lay the blame. They found it. They said the trouble was caused by American concerns which had come in there and were paying American wages.

It is a rather stimulating thought to think of the whole world going to the American wage basis. For time out of mind, there has always been a notion that Europe, for ever and ever, must be a victim of pauper wages and that of Asia worse than that, but it may dawn on the mind of some effectual person, some of these days, that prosperity need not necessarily always be confined to America.

It is not all a dream. According to Dr. Julius Klein, assistant secretary of commerce, who has the knack of making statistical tables more interesting than fiction, the economic levels of the nations of the world are being raised and the financial resources of individual countries are being augmented by reason of the activity and ever-growing needs of the American people.

World trade of this kind will grow in intimacy and volume. The tendency will be to raise the scale of wants the world over. Perhaps the effect of American trade will be to break up ideas and practices that have been too long regarded as fixed.—Michigan State Journal.

Abolishing Battleships. Rumors as to the course of negotiations between the American and British governments for naval limitation must of course be received with reserve, but the suggestion that they will result in the abolition of the capital ship is not encouraging. It is in this category that the United States approximates that equality with Great Britain which we have been told both from Washington and Downing street is to be the objective and test of agreement between us. We are far behind Great Britain in total naval power, and not likely to build up to her or acquire within our generation, if ever, the other elements of naval power essential to equality.

With a strong battleship fleet we should retain a threat which would be an invaluable factor in any naval situation, even though Great Britain has one of approximately equal strength. But if we abolish the battle fleet and organize our naval strength upon the basis of cruisers of which Great Britain has now a heavy preponderance and must retain a very great number, probably much greater than we are likely to build, the discrepancy between us is not narrowed but perpetuated if not increased.

Indeed, as we have pointed out repeatedly, the reduction of heavy, specialized armed craft increases vastly the relative power and importance of the improvised navy and hence of the naval power which possesses the most large and fast merchant ships, specifically Great Britain and, we have no doubt, in a surprisingly short time, Germany.—Chicago Tribune.

A man's success in business today turns upon his power of getting people to believe he has something that they want.—Lee.

Amusements

"HONKY TONK" IS BIG HIT

Last night's audience at the American theater gave uproarious approval to "Honky Tonk." Warner Bros. latest talking, singing, Vitaphone picture, which features Sophie Tucker, "last of the red hot mamas."

The shimmy-shaking, coon-shout, first lady of jazzland, is cast as hostess of a New York night. She has educated her daughter, all the while keeping her in ignorance of the way in which she earns her money. Complications arise when the daughter returns and when a tipping young man comes on the scene.

Supporting cast includes: Lee, Audrey Ferris, George, Mahlon Hamilton and Joe Murray. There is a beautiful beauty chorus to add to the gaiety of the night club scenes.

Leslie S. Barrows wrote the story of "Honky Tonk," which was adapted for the screen by C. Graham Baker. Lloyd Bacon is responsible for the excellent direction.

Sophie Tucker is the inimitable and inextinguishable center of the show—singing five new songs and Vitaphone songs: "I'm Doing What I'm Doing for Love," "I Don't Want to Get Thin," "I'm Feathering a Nest for a Little Blue Bird," "He's a Good Man to Have Around," and "I'm the Last of the Red Hot Mamas."

ENTIRE REGIMENT IN 'BLACK WATCH'

A complete regiment, numbering 1,000 soldiers, played a prominent part in the production of "The Black Watch," Fox Film directed by John Ford, although this all-dialog production is not a war picture.

Clad in kilts, the aggregation consisted solely of ex-service men, recruited from the various Veterans' bureaus of Los Angeles and so per cent were either Scotch or English veterans with more than 250 wearing decorations for meritorious service during the late conflict.

Technical direction for the big scene showing the regiment on training at Victoria station in London was by Jack Deering, former major in the Australian forces.

"The Black Watch," now at the Ceramic, is a visualization of Talbot Mundy's widely-read novel and stars Victor McLaglen in the role of "Captain Donald Gordon King," of the famous "Black Watch," the nickname for the 42nd Highlanders.

Myrna Loy, exotic beauty of the screen, has the leading feminine role, that of "Yasmania," a she-devil who aspires to a throne and domination of India.

She has outgamed and outwitted every other man who has ran across her path until McLaglen conquers her.

Included in the cast are David Rollins, Lumsden Hare, Mitchell Lewis, Walter Long, Roy D'Arcy, David Percy, Arthur Clayton, Cyril Chadwick, Claude King, David Torrence, Pat Somerset and Richard Travers.

John Stone adapted the story and the dialog was written by James K. McGuinness, who also supervised the production.

SALLY O'NEIL AT THE STATE

The most important role of her career is afforded Sally O'Neil in "On With the Show," the first 100 per cent natural color, talking, singing, dancing Vitaphone picture now at the State theater.

Miss O'Neil was discovered by Marshall Neilan, who gave her her first role in pictures in "Mike," in which she played the title lead. Her success was instantaneous and she has since risen in fame, until the important part of this lavish production was given her following tests which showed that her voice had as much charm as her person.

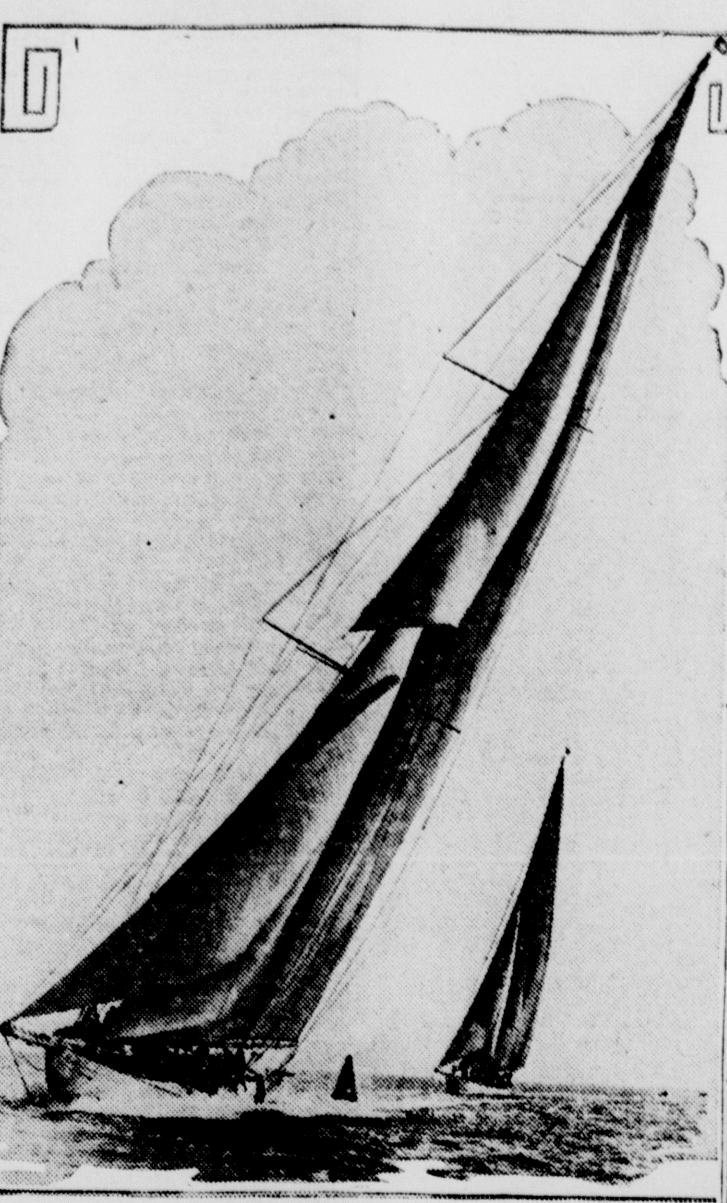

Her sister is Molly O'Day, who leaped into the limelight when, as practically an unknown, she was given the lead opposite Richard Barthelmess in "The Patent Leather Kid." Sally was making the first stage tour of her career with Fanchon and Marco, when Warner Bros. offered her this important role.

"On With the Show" contains one of the most important casts of the year. It includes Arthur Lake, Betty Compson, William Bakewell, Louise Fazenda, Sam Hardy, Lee Moran, Joe E. Brown, the Fairbanks Twins, and many others as well as a beauty chorus of one hundred.

Two banners have been placed in the cathedral at Peterborough, Scotland, to mark Mary Queen of Scots' first burial place.

When the Queen of England recently laid the corner stone for the new Y. W. C. A. club house in London the ceremonies were broadcast.

LIPTON'S BOAT LEADS WAY

This picture, made during the recent 114th revival of the historic Cowes regatta in England, caught the "Shamrock," Sir Thomas Lipton's cup contender, showing her heels to the fleet. Cowes race week is replete with tradition, demanding the interest of the entire British Isles. Sir Thomas will bring his boat to the United States in another effort to lach the "America" cup, which has been successfully defended by our yachtsmen for many years.

COLUMBUS NINE COPS 6-2 CLASH

Senators Beat Millers; Colonels Cop.

With Indianapolis and Louisville still deadlocked in the fourth place, a bit of zip and zest has been added to the American Association pennant race.

Columbus, which scored its sixth consecutive victory yesterday by defeating Minneapolis, should be placed somewhere near the top of the honor roll.

Louisville, too, should be complimented and congratulated on scoring a win over Kansas City.

Playing like the Trojans of old, the Senators pounded out 15 hits for nine runs. Minneapolis took six scattered hits for three tallies.

A home run by High featured the Columbus side of the ninth inning. The bases, worse luck, were empty at the time. Columbus is in the sixth berth. Minneapolis is third.

Louisville upset more than one dopest's bucket when it pushed Kansas City through nine innings of spirited playing for an 8 to 6 score.

Indianapolis upheld its end of the tie, but it took 10 innings to place a 6 to 5 win against Milwaukee. It is not an enviable record.

Both Louisville and Indianapolis meet their same opponents today, and tomorrow perhaps, the tie will be broken and one team will have a first-division position.

Milwaukee, forgotten in the excitement of the recount, is seventh, apparently mired there.

St. Paul widened the gap between its second position lead over Minneapolis, by taking an easy contest from Toledo by a 10 to 1 score. The Saints are a safe second today. Toledo, which is a decided last, plans to recall three players it previously farmed out to other teams. They are Eddie Layter, now with Canton, "Nig" Mulleavy, with Decatur, and Bill Raab, with Bloomington. Maybe the moves will put new life into the now listless team.

Standings remained unchanged with Kansas City topping the list. St. Paul second, Minneapolis third, Indianapolis and Louisville tied for fourth, Columbus sixth, Milwaukee seventh, and Toledo last.

PHILS DEFEAT PIRATES AGAIN

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Aug. 21.—The Phillies made it three in a row by defeating the Pittsburgh Pirates here yesterday, 8 to 6. The game started to become a rout when Brame was tanned for eight runs in the first three innings. Five of them coming in the third, but Carmen Hill and Jess Petty, who followed him to the mound, kept the Phillies from further scoring.

Lou Koupal went brilliantly for the Phillies until the seventh, when he weakened and the corsairs scored five runs, three of them being driven home by Paul Waner's home run. He was then relieved by Willoughby, who stopped further scoring.

Chuck Klein, the National league's leading slugger, had to quit the lineup in midgame. Chuck is suffering from a severe cold.

SAILORS ARE IN AGAIN, GIRLS!

Yes, the fleet's in again and so are middies. And Helen Chandler, left, was never one to lag behind where fashions are concerned. For sports, they are the ideal combination of comfort and chic. Josephine Dunn, right, is a bit more masculine in her taste, but naval nevertheless. She proves conclusively how nifty a modern maid can look in her brother's naval cap, sweat shirt and white duck trousers.

APPLES SUFFER FROM DROUGHT

Damage to Crop Estimated at $3,000,000.

BOSTON, Aug. 21.—(INS)—The drought of nearly a month's duration which caused damage estimated at $3,000,000 to New England crops, had little effect upon the potato crop but reduced the probable apple output 6.4 per cent the survey of the New England Crop Reporting Service of the Department of Agriculture reveals.

The dry weather during June and July counteracted the favorable prospects offered by the heavy apple bloom and the fair set. Insect and disease damage have ranged from light to average in most sections. While the McIntosh yield is expected to be materially better than in 1928, Baldwin and other important varieties promise to produce light crops.

Production is now forecast as 1,560,000 barrels as compared with the 1,479,000 barrels harvested last year, and the five year average of 1,521,000 barrels.

The New England potato crop is now estimated at 49,348,000 bushels compared with 46,092,000 bushels harvested in 1928 and the five year average of 47,253,000 bushels.

In Aroostock County rainfall has been sufficiently heavy to encourage a good growth of tops which are likely to succumb to blight if present moisture conditions persist throughout August.

The dry weather during the past month has aided the potato crop materially, since records indicate that dry weather is invariably more favorable to a good yield than excessive rainfall.

A movement to have city children know as much about London as their country cousins has been started in London.

LARGE CROWDS AT NAZARENE CHURCH MEET

Rev. G. W. Heslop, Olivet, Ill., Teacher In Charge.

DAILY SERVICES

"Seven New Things" Subject for Last Night's Sermon.

Regarded as one of the most pertinent Bible expositors that has appeared in the city in recent years the Rev. William G. Heslop, D. D., professor of Theology in Olivet college, Olivet, Ill., is attracting crowds and deeply impressing them during his interval of a week's stay at the First Nazarene church on St. Clair avenue, where he is speaking nightly. His theme last evening was "Seven New Things."

On Monday evening he spoke on "The Twelve Sons of Jacob" in which he declared that all names in the Bible have a meaning for people today as well as all changed names in the scriptures. "Salvation from start to finish is set forth in the names of Jacob's twelve sons," he said.

He referred also to the new city mentioned in Revelations which is described as being 1500 miles in length breadth and width. "It is great, new and holy and only those themselves holy in heart and life shall enter it," he declared.

Reference was also made to the new temple referred to in Revelations.

"God has always sought fellowship with man, he said. He visited our first parents in the Garden of Eden; He walked with Enoch for 300 years, revealed His holy will to Noah, feasted with Abraham under the tree, wrestled with Jacob, manifested His glory to Moses, and finally came down and was born in a stable and cradled in a manger, God manifest in the flesh.

"In a day that is yet to dawn there shall be a new heaven, a new earth and a new temple when God shall dwell with men.

"In the Old Testament God was with us. In the gospels God was with us. In the Epistles God is in us. The Holy Spirit in all his fullness will come into our hearts and take up His abode forever."

He declared last evening also that there are three new heavens mentioned in the Bible: the atmosphere, the starry heavens and the home of God.

The present earth has been cursed three times he indicated by the sin of Lucifer, Adam and the Canaanites.

"Reuben, meaning a 'son,' speaks of regeneration; Simeon which means 'to hear' that following regeneration Christians listen to God; Judah, 'praise' indicating the regenerated will praise God; Zebulon, 'to abide' suggests the second work of grace, even holiness of heart and life."

He held that Issachar referred to 'service or hire' evidencing service following salvation and sanctification; Dan 'to judge' when, born again and sanctified, one learns to judge himself and not others; Gad, 'to overcome' refers to the same seven promises of Revelation given to overcomers making the Christian life a victorious one; Asher, 'happy' revealing Christianity as a happy state; 'Maphath,' which is happy means 'to wrestle,' suggesting in the Christian's changed life his tendency to wrestle with God in prayer and with men by their testimony; Joseph 'increase' which indicates the consequent growth in grace of those renewed by the Spirit, and Benjamin, 'the son of my right hand,' which declares the certainty of eventually being exalted to the right hand of the Father by the new birth and the baptism of the Spirit.

His Life Long Ambition is Ruined

HOWEVER, for your comfort, you may remember that some things even big business cannot undertake. Only Uncle Sam is big enough to attack them.

Big business admitted that it couldn't undertake the Boulder Dam, much as it would have liked to control that water supply.

And big business should not finance a war. Not all the money in all the banks could do that. However, big business can grow bigger when the war is over and the profits begin to come in.

WHEN women wanted to vote years ago, gentlemen with necks bigger around than their heads said: "Let women go to war and fight if they want to vote." Many of the men had never been to war, but did not mention that.

Now twenty women have entered the airplane race from Santa Monica to Cleveland, an "air derby" for women only.

These young women will fly alone from the edge of the Pacific over the Rocky Mountains to Cleveland.

AND young women are not the only female fliers. An English woman, the Duchess of Bedford, 63 years old, has flown from England to India and back in seven days.

IN courage—mental or physical, in honesty, self-sacrifice and devotion women are superior to men.

In works of genius women are yet not equal or approach men. There is no female Homer, Shakespeare, Michael Angelo or Newton. But each of those geniuses was created by some woman. And that mother was the real genius.

15 CRUISERS TO BE BUILT FOR U. S. NAVY

Work on Vessels Halted by Hoover Resumed.

HOOVER DISSENTS

British Unable to Reduce Fleet Macdonald Says.

By GEORGE R. HOLMES, International News Service Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—The fifteen new naval cruisers which congress decreed should be laid down during the next three years, and on which President Hoover ordered work suspended, are to be built after all.

Try as they have, Ambassador Dawes and Premier Ramsay MacDonald have been unable to hit upon any scheme that will provide even a semblance of cruiser parity between England and the United States without the construction of these new American naval units. The British say they cannot scrap down to the American level, and that leaves this administration no alternative but to go ahead with the building program that congress insisted upon.

This much, it was learned today, has been determined fairly definitely in the Dawes-MacDonald negotiations.

Although President Hoover was strongly desirous of avoiding any further naval construction, for reasons of economy as well as of world policy, Britain's unwillingness to do any appreciable scrapping of cruisers may yet prove a blessing in disguise for the administration. For one thing, it will let Mr. Hoover out of a fight with congress that was inevitable over the executive suspension of the three-year program.

Congress is rather touchy concerning its constitutional prerogatives, and some of the best constitutional authorities in both houses have questioned the president's legality to suspend the cruiser program.

Moreover, the satisfaction in congress over having imposed its will upon the White House may make the legislators more kindly disposed toward some of the concessions which will be made to the British admiralty in other directions.

There are increasing indications that the American government is prepared to make some real concessions to the British in the field of small cruisers.

At Geneva, the American delegation, backed by its naval experts, took the adamant position that a cruiser was a cruiser.

Now it appears that the American government is willing to meet, part way at least, the British position that a cruiser of 6,000 tons and mounting only 6-inch guns, of which Britain has plenty, is, after all, more of a defensive than an offensive vessel. Or, as the British have it, "a policing vessel."

At Geneva, Hugh S. Gibson, the chief of the American delegation, on the advice of the American admirals present, took quite a positive position on this question.

"The American delegation," he said, "cannot but feel that every warship possesses essential characteristics and that no ship is built for the sole purpose of defending itself against attack. We cannot allow the reasoning which attributes to 6-inch gun cruisers a purely defensive role."

PRISONER WEDS BEHIND BARS

"Gyp" Williams Marries Former Wife At Wauseon.

WAUSEON, Aug. 21.—(INS.)—With a rhythmic twang, Dan Cupid, archer extraordinary and creator of unwonted news events, fired one of his arrows through a barred window of the county jail here.

"Gyp Williams," Toledo police character and indicted bank robber, fell victim to the dart. He remarried his former wife yesterday and today he is again wearing the martial harness.

In obtaining the marriage license, Gyp, who was accompanied by guards, gave his name as Albert Lovell and stated that he was a pugilist by profession. His former wife wrote her name as Helen F. Lovell.

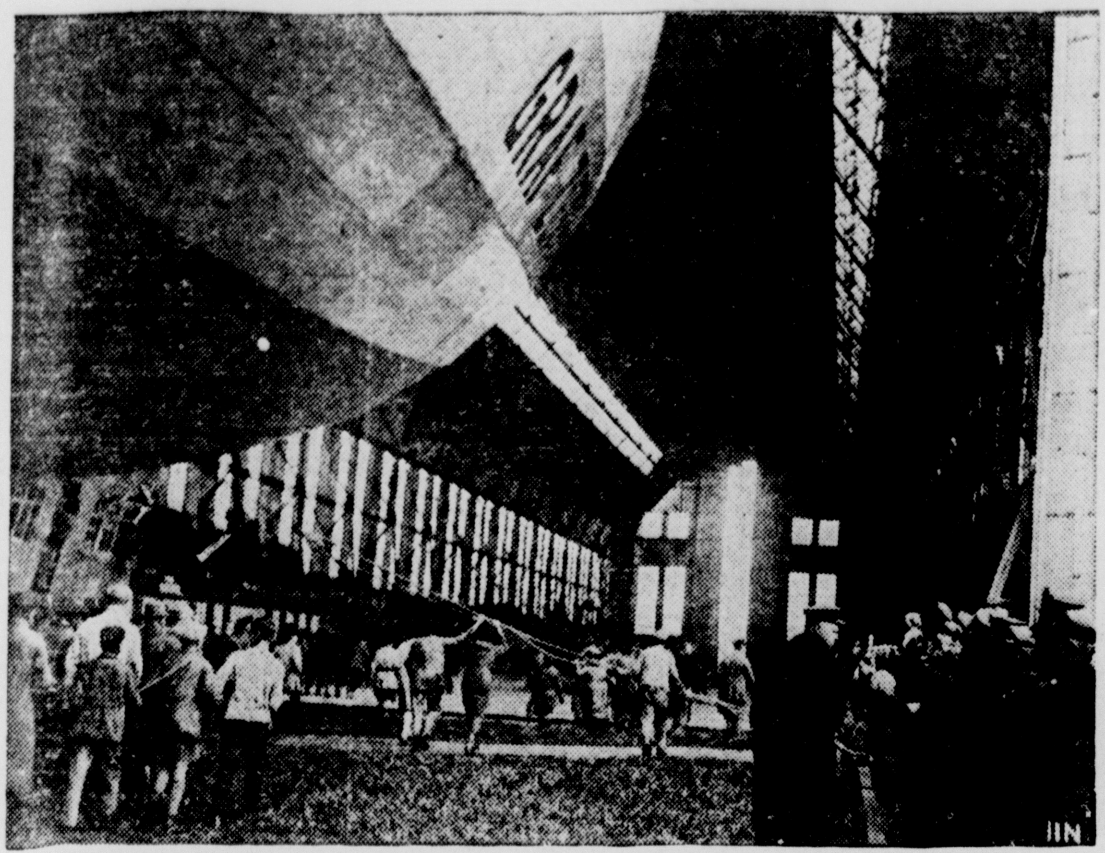

Gyp, it is alleged, is one of the three bandits who held up and robbed the Farmers' State bank at Lyons, near here. Loot of $5,000 which has not been recovered by police, was obtained. The alleged robber goes to trial tomorrow morning.

AMENDMENT IS DEFEATED

Clevelanders Approve Charter Form of Government.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 21.—(INS.)—The city manager form of municipal government today survived its third test at the hands of Cleveland's electorate.

By a majority of more than 3,000 the charter amendment, which sought to oust the manager plan and replace it with the old mayor-council system, was defeated in Cleveland's special election, the final tabulation of the 97,155 votes cast yesterday showed today.

It was the third successive time that charter amendments, all of which have been supported and sponsored by former Governor Harry L. Davis, were turned down by Cleveland voters.

In addition to being a victory for the city manager form of city government, the election was a victory for a newly organized political faction in Cleveland—the Progressive Government League. This new organization was jubilant today over its defeat of a veteran political machine, the highly-touted Republican organization.

As in the previous two defeats of charter amendments that were put in the hands of Cleveland voters within the last three years, much of the credit for saving the manager plan from doom, went to women voters of Cleveland. They rallied in a strong organization and were an important factor in both pre-election campaigning for the manager plan, and in the election itself.

With his third charter amendment rejected by Cleveland voters, former Governor Davis declined to state today whether he will again attempt to oust the city manager plan and substitute it with the elective mayor system.

"I am still firmly convinced, however, that a return to the federal plan would result in greater interest on the part of the people in their city government," Davis said.

The contest yesterday was actually closer than the charter amendment election in 1928. The margin, however, was practically the same, since nearly 12,000 more persons voted.

EXPORTS SHOW BIG INCREASE

Manufactured Goods Account for Nearly Half of Sales.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—(INS.)—Exports of finished manufactured goods in the year ending June 30 amounted to $2,509,000,000, nearly half of the total foreign sales of $5,374,000,000, the department of commerce announced today.

Finished products accounted for seven-eighths of the increase in export values of $497,000,000 over the preceding fiscal year.

A large part of the growth in exports was due to the record sale of automobiles, the value of which was $591,000,000. Automobile exports increased 39 per cent. Ten times as many automobiles were shipped abroad as in 1922. Exports to Canada increased 15 per cent and aggregated $938,000,000. Heavy exports of grains ultimately destined for Europe were made to Canada, while considerable gains were made in the shipment of coal, gasoline, machinery, automobiles and iron and steel.

Latin-American exports increased six per cent over the year before to a total of $420,000,000. Exports to Mexico were nine per cent higher, while those to Cuba showed a decline. Argentina was the leading Latin-American purchaser for American goods, making purchases of $207,000,000, a gain of 23 per cent.

TWO SCHOOL BOARDS TO DISCUSS CENTRALIZED SCHOOL AT ROGERS

Bond Issue for Remodeling Present Building to be Submitted to Township Electors.

A joint meeting of the Middleton township board of education and the board of education of the village of Rogers will be held this week for the purpose of discussing the proposition of converting the Rogers school into a centralized school, and also to determine the amount of a bond issue required to remodel and enlarge the school building at Rogers for centralized school purposes.

The legislation for the bond issue has been prepared by Assistant Prosecuting Attorney George L. Lafferty, and this will be acted upon by both boards in joint session.

With additional mileage of improved highways in Middleton township, it is declared that the cost of education will be materially reduced and that children will be given a better and higher education by having the centralized proposal approved at the November election.

The centralized school movement is growing fast in Columbiana county, and the first centralized school was opened in Fairfield township a number of years ago. By the consolidation system, the number of boards of education are reduced, and the number of rural schools are also materially reduced.

ADJUST SUITS IN TWO CASES

There has been a settlement at the costs of the defendant in two cases filed against Jonathan Moltenkopf, and without record. Vincent E. Lieber sued for $1,075 damages as a result of an automobile accident and Etta C. Lieber sued the same defendant for $545.55.

The cost of living in England, according to an official announcement, has fallen to a lower figure than at any time in the last 12 years.

SIX DAMAGE CLAIMS SETTLED

Suits Amounting to
$77,500 Adjusted
Out of Court.

Six damage actions against O. Park Smith wherein a total of $77,500 was sought by division among as many plaintiffs have been settled in common pleas court for $400 and the costs in each action. Two cases have been dismissed because of settlement out of court and without further record. All actions were the result of an automobile accident, and the petitions against Smith were filed March 4 last.

William B. Stiver sued Smith for $55,750 damages and an action for $10,000 was filed by Mabel Stiver, his wife. These were settled out of court.

Carrie Siver sued for $5,000 and William Stiver sought $1,000 damages. Bernard Stiver filed an action for $5,000 and Yvonne Stiver sought $1,000. There was a trial to the court in the four latter cases and a directed verdict of $100 and costs in favor of each plaintiff was returned. A motion for a new trial was overruled in each instance, and a judgment on the verdict and for the costs has been entered in each of these cases.

New Trial Overruled.

A motion for a new trial has been overruled in the case of Anna McDonald against Alice McDowell, as administratrix of the estate of Catherine Jackson wherein a jury returned a verdict May 10 last for $475. There has been a remission of $55 on the verdict, and a judgment has been entered accordingly in favor of the plaintiff for $420 and costs.

MUST SUPPORT HIS FAMILY

D. W. Lewis of Wellsville entered a plea of guilty to a charge of non support filed against him in probate court, and was then ordered by Judge Lodge Riddle to pay his wife $5 weekly for the support of his family.

Lewis had been before the court about a year ago on a similar charge and was sent to the Canton workhouse. Recently he had returned to East Liverpool a few days ago and was arrested.

RULING MADE IN OLD CASE

In the case of Harry Potts and others against the St. Clair Township Mutual Insurance company, filed April 25, 1921, and one of the oldest cases pending in common pleas court, James H. Hilbert, as receiver, has been ordered by the court to pay all unpaid costs, and the case has been ordered left off the docket. Hilbert was appointed receiver in this case by the late Judge James G. Moore.

HERD OF SHEEP KILLED BY WOLF

A wolf is supposed to have killed and wounded 36 sheep of E. L. Zuch residing on the East Liverpool-East Palestine road in Middleton township Tuesday night. This killing has wiped out the entire herd. A month ago Zuch lost a number of sheep, both killed and wounded. The first killing was by dogs, but the manner the last lot were killed caused Zuch and other farmers to believe that a wolf got in the herd.

Sale Ordered.

One 30 foot concrete bridge and five concrete box culverts are to be built on this road. Both grading and concrete construction are to be finished this year. The road will most likely be given a concrete top next spring. A portion of this new road is within the city limits of Salem.

$648 JUDGMENT IS VACATED

The judgment for $648.66 entered in common pleas court in favor of the plaintiff Aug. 5 in the case of Martin Szpock against Ignace Kryk, an action on a cognovit note, has been vacated by the court, the motion having been sustained. The court, however, has granted the defendant leave to file an answer at once, and the vacation of the judgment has been held in abeyance until final trial and judgment.

Will File Answer.

The court has granted leave to C. A. Poole to file an answer and cross petition at once in the suit of the Farmers Savings & Loan company against Thomas L. Campbell.

ORDERS ISSUED IN DIVORCE ACTIONS

The court has granted a temporary restraining order as prayed for in the divorce petition filed by Sadie Ewing against her husband

James Ewing. No bond was required in this action. James Jones, defendant in a divorce action filed against him by his wife Letha Jones, has been ordered by the court to pay $50 as counsel fees for the plaintiff within 30 days and in addition $5 weekly during the pendency of the suit.

Dizziness and Stomach Disorders Vanish In Short Time

Owa-Ton-Na Overcomes Condition Which Caused
Mrs. Lemley Five Years of Suffering.

One of E. Liverpool's well known residents has found Owa-Ton-Na particularly helpful in stomach disorders. Mrs. Henrietta Lemley, 206 Armstrong Lane, E. Liverpool, Ohio, says: "Anyone who has suffered with indigestion knows the misery that one can go through with this condition. It hardly made any difference what I ate. I would always have trouble. Gas attacks made my stomach feel as though it were bloated up like a drum. This would crowd my heart and would make me short of breath."

"After a short course of Owa-Ton-Na, my appetite improved and food didn't distress me. I certainly was surprised when I could go one whole day without suffering with gas. Is it any wonder that I feel so good about Owa-Ton-Na? My bowels started to function normally again. I have never before given my name to be used to endorse anything but I am so well pleased with the results that Owa-Ton-Na gives that I feel that if I can help anyone else who is suffering as I did, that it will be a good deed."

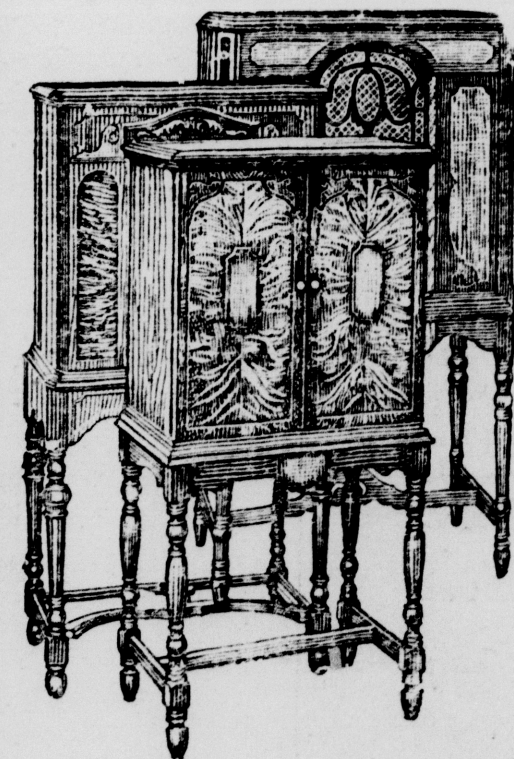

Mrs. Lemley is sincere in her endorsement of this fine old Indian Remedy, Owa-Ton-Na. It has helped thousands in kidney, rheumatism, liver and stomach disorders, rheumatism, neuritis, nervousness and a general run down condition of health. Surely it can help you, too. ## Church Celebration Draws Large Crowd

Mrs. H. Lemley.

More Than 1,000 Attend Dedication of New United Presbyterian Chapel.

CHESTER, W. Va., Aug. 21.—United Presbyterians, who attended the homecoming and the dedication of the Chapel which has been erected on the site of the famed church of the denomination at Service, Pa., near Hookstown, Pa., report an attendance of more than a thousand persons at the second of the two affairs and almost as many in the initial one on the preceding day.

Eleven ministers, the majority of them former pastors and those who had attended the church in youthful days were present at the Saturday meeting and almost as many remained for that on Sunday.

The chapel was crowded to its utmost capacity as the Rev. J. O. Campbell, of Darlington, Pa., former pastor of the Second United Presbyterian church, of East Liverpool, and the Rev. Dr. Robert Littell, of Philadelphia, preached on Sunday afternoon. It was necessary to have an overflow session at the same time on the outside of the church structure which was addressed by four brothers named Campbell and all by now are ministers of the gospel in various sections of the country.

Something of the seriousness in which the late Rev. Dr. John Anderson, who founded the church and headed the Seminary which for years was located near by was indicated by one of the speakers who had penetrated the session records for data regarding the church's early activities.

LEAGUE RACE TIGHTENS AS WELLSVILLE COPS

Defeats Chester News, 7-6

Visitors Take Advantage of Foe's Miscues.

TAKING advantage of enemy miscues at every turn, the Wellsville Inter-City league club won from Chester News last night, 7 to 6, at Chester.

The Chester club's customary strong defense was present but erratic work in the field handicapped their batting efforts.

The home nine outfit Wellsville, getting eight biggies off Sainor while Simcox and George Cebula, who worked on the hilltop for the McMath contingent, limited the visitors to five.

Campbell and Pete Cebula led the attack for Chester, the former having a perfect batting average with a brace of doubles and a single in three times up. Pete had a triple and a double.

Tommy Maley and George Wagner carried off the clubbing honors for Wellsville, each with two hits apiece.

Billy Watson, paying right field for the visitors, started on defense, taking part in two double plays. He pulled down Marshall's line drive in the second to double Cox off first.

Simcox, Cebula on Slab Harry Simcox started on the slab for Chester. Although he walked three men in the first, he got by without any scoring. But after pitching to five men in the second, walking Canne and hitting Tobin, Manager McMath sent Simcox to right and brought in George Cebula. The latter fanned four of the visiting clubbers but his hilltop efforts were offset by errors in his defense.

Campbell scored the first run of the game in the opening inning after crashing a two-bagger, but Wellsville chased in four in the second to take a decided lead.

Canne got a walk and Lynch sacrificed. Parsons muffed Sainor's fly, Canne reaching third and Sainor first. Tobin was hit with a pitched ball, leading the bases. Canne counted on Maley's infield single. Sainor scored on a wild pitch and Tobin on a passed ball. Maley finished on G. Wagner's single through the box.

Pete Cebula's triple and Springer's single gave Chester a run in the fourth.

Sew Up Game in Fifth. The visitors boosted their lead with a three-run attack in the first of the fifth. Howell, second up, got a walk. Canne singled to center. Howell going to third. Simcox made a wide peg to first on the single. Howell scoring and Canne going on to second. Sainor walked. With two gone, Tobin hit to Campbell at third and his throw to first was high. Canne scoring. Sainor moving on to third and Tobin to second. Maley's single to center chased Canne in and Tobin was thrown out at the plate on Simcox's throw.

Chester made a desperate bid for the game in last half of the same inning and came within one run of knotting the tally.

Simcox started it with a walk. Campbell produced a two-bagger to center and both scored on Pete Cebula's double to left. Pete counted on Springer's single to right. Springer going to second on the throw to the plate. Springer swiped third and registered the last run of the game on a wild pitch.

HE'S IMPORTANT CUB

Speaking of the Chicago Cubs, too much credit can not be given to Guy Bush, right, their rangy pitcher. His record of 17 victories and 2 defeats has played no small part in lifting the Windy City team to the dizzy heights of leadership in the National league.

Pitching is his brand will come in mighty handy if the Cubs are fighting it out in the world's series. One of the lesser lights of the team, yet valuable, is Clyde Beck, left, utility infielder. Clyde is always there in the pinches. That's just what he is on the team for and he sure makes good.

SERVICE HANGS UP 6TH IN ROW

Malonis Holds Last Place Entry to Six Hits.

MIDLAND, Pa., Aug. 21.—Clubbing out 15 hits while Malonis kept the opposition swatters on his hip throughout the contest, the Service nine of the Gracible Steel circuit copped last night from the Finishes, 6 to 2.

Hoffman, Finishes' third sacker, and Sheehan, first baseman, were the only sluggers of that club who were not consistently fooled by Malonis' slants.

Hoffman had a perfect day with three hits in three times up, including two triples and a double.

Petroskey led the Service attack with three blows in four trips up. The Services play the Valve leen club at Butler tonight and tackle the Open Hearths Thursday.

Yankees Wallop Sox, 5-4

Faber Honored by Patrons of Comiskey Park.

By Henry McLemore.

NEW YORK, N. Y., Aug. 21.—The Yanks today are no doubt congratulating themselves on being the generous souls that they are.

For yesterday being Faber day at Comiskey park with the veteran pitcher being given a check for $2,700 and a radio among other things, the Yanks up and give him a 5 to 4 beating. This gift included plenty of misery as some eleven hits went along with the beating.

While Huggins' Athletics were being so considerate of Mr. Faber the Athletics were taking one on the chin from the Browns so they now lead the American parade by a paltry margin of twelve games. Ralph Kress' homer with one on provided the St. Louis run.

Three Detroit pitchers tried in vain to stop Boston, the Red Sox pounding out a 12 to 8 verdict.

Great relief pitching by Myles Thomas enabled Washington to whip Cleveland, 6 to 2. The youthful Myles came in after Murke had been knocked out in the first inning to find the bases loaded and none down. He allowed no further scoring.

And things that aren't being done this season: Whipping the Cubs in both ends of a doubleheader.

The Giants tried it yesterday and all they got for their trouble was an even break which hardly ruffled the Cubs as second-place Pittsburgh was busy losing to Philadelphia. McGraw's Athletics took the first affair, 4 to 1, beating Guy Bush in the process. The second game was a 1 to 0 triumph for Hal Carlson's seventh straight win. Rogers Hornsby, who scored the Cub's lone run in the opener, tallied again by means of a triple and Wilson's single.

Philadelphia trimmed Pittsburgh, 8 to 6, by the simple but effective expedient of scoring eight runs in the first three innings and then watching the Pirates try and catch up. Chuck Klein, leading home run hitter in the National, was forced to retire from the game. He is suffering from a severe cold.

Brooklyn's pain in seeing the Cards conquer Dazzy Vance, 3 to 2, in the first game of a double bill, was greatly alleviated by Ray Moss's 4 to 0 victory in the second. Johnny Frederick slapped his twenty-first homer over the wall in the nightcap.

Fred Lucas ran his win string to sixteen when he pitched Cincinnati to a 6 to 2 win over Boston.

AT NEW YORK—George Siders knocked out Fitz Jones of the U. S. Navy in first round (10).

INTER-CITY LEAGUE

Is the final lap of the second half drive in the Inter-City league going to prove a repetition of the first?

Looks like it at the present with but a single game separating Laughlin, in first place, from Wellsville, in third, following Wellsville's victory over Chester last night. The Katics are second, just a half game back of Laughlin and Wellsville is a half game in the rear of the Katics.

Another "crocial" game is billed tonight at Newell when the Katics invade the West Virginia lot.

If the Newell nine wins, it will give them a game and a half lead over the Katics. On the other hand, the Katics will go into first place if they should be the victors.

SCHMELING WILL SAIL FOR HOME

NEW YORK, N. Y., Aug. 21.—Max Schmeling's last chance to patch up his difficulties vanished today with his own announcement of his departure for Germany next Saturday on the S. S. Albert Ballin, but promoter Humbert Fugazy still refuses to give up hope of a Schmeling-Phil Scott match at Ebbets field next month and is making the one last effort to induce the Teuton Heavyweight to sum up his case before the boxing board today.

Fugazy conferred with Joe Jacobs and Schmeling last night in an effort to induce the latter to reconsider his determination to put a permanent wave in his New York suspension by walking out on the mess into which he has sunk through a series of amazing intrigues.

Doubleheader Season Looms At Forbes Field

Twin Bills Scheduled With Chicago, Brooklyn, Giants and Braves.

Nothing in the way of thrills and real baseball enthusiasm at Forbes Field, the home of the Pittsburgh baseball club, quite measures up to that promised in the coming series of five games in four days between the Pirates and the Chicago Cubs in the final decisive battle for the league leadership. Beginning with a doubleheader on Wednesday, August 25th, the first day the Pirates are home from their final eastern trip, the Chicago boys will be at the Pirate home lot up to and including Saturday, August 31. The Pirates are far from being out of the race for first place and the pennant, and because of its vital importance to both clubs for the season's honors, this five-game set should be the most hectic double series played at Forbes Field in many years, and capacity crowds are looked for.

But twenty-six games remain on the 1926 schedule of the Pirates, every club in the league being met for the last time this year, and as the outcome of the season still is far from being determined, stellar baseball is going to prevail right through to the end.

The big series with the Cubs is followed by another choice model for the fans in the Labor Day games, morning and afternoon games at 10:30 and 3 being carded for the final holiday of the year. The Reds having been playing their best ball against the Pirates all season, and these two holiday setos should be sizzlers.

After a few days in the west, the Buccaneers continue their home stand with five games in four days against the Brooklyn outfit, the series opening with a doubleheader on Friday, September 6, and being followed with single games September 7, 9 and 10.

Then comes the prize baseball package of ten year, a doubleheader with the New York Giants on Wednesday, September 11. The Giants remain in town for single games on September 12 and 13.

The troublesome Phillies open a three-day stand on Saturday, September 14, and remain for games on September 16 and 17. The Phillies are the boys with the home-run hitters who have given the Buccos so much trouble this year. Chuck Klein is the National league leader in homers, while both Lefty O'Doul and Don Hurst also have home-run records this year.

The Boston Braves, with the colorful and clownish Rabbit Maranville, open a five game series with a doubleheader on Wednesday, September 18, followed by single games September 19, 20 and 21. The Buccaneers then take to the road for a few days and come back home to close the season with games with the St. Louis Cardinals, our old friend, Bill McKechnie, being at the helm.

The Cards will play single games October 4 and 5.

Mail orders for all the above games directed to Forbes Field, Pittsburgh, Pa., will be taken care of to the best advantage possible.

The Greatest success in all Buick history

More people have purchased New Buicks during the past two weeks than in any similar period of any previous year

The New Buick with Body by Fisher has met with a veritable landslide of public demand. Many purchased before ever seeing the car—many thousands of others placed their orders the first few days it was on display—other thousands have been taking demonstrations and then making Buick their choice.

More Buick owners have entered orders—more men and women who owned other cars have turned to Buick—more people who formerly paid from $1000 to $2000 higher for their automobiles have purchased Buicks—than ever before during a similar period in Buick's twenty-six year history.

The total demand during these two weeks is from three to five times as great as that for any other automobile priced above $1200.

Popularity so overwhelming carries an unmistakable message to every prospective motor car buyer: See the new Buick—drive it—compare it—and you'll quickly discover that it's the greatest dollar-for-dollar value in the entire quality field.

"BIG GAME"

Story of a girl who thought love more powerful than society.

By Vida Hurst

Mabel again. Always and ever lastingly Mabel!
"Go home, then, since you want to go home," Mabel said, crossly.
"But, darling, I don't want to go home," Mabel said, crossly.
"I know, you must because Mabel is expecting you. Well? Far be it from me to keep you, Bruce."
"Don't be unreasonable Mabel. You know I want to stay."
"No you don't. Don't you see how impossible it is for us to even be friends?"
"Don't be angry," he pleaded.
"You know from anyone else's point of view I shouldn't have stopped at all."
"All right. Then why don't you go?"

As if driven by an uncontrollable force, Bruce seized her. "Don't talk like that to me! Don't torment me, Mabel."
"Oh, Bruce, I don't mean to. I don't want to be cross. Only, darling, it does hurt. . . ."
"Don't you think I know. That's why I told you we shouldn't see each other."
"But how can we help it, Bruce?"
"By not doing it," Bruce said, sternly. "I had no business stopping tonight for any reason. And I could stay away easier if I thought you didn't care. But when I know you're here alone and unhappy."

"I'm not!" she lied. "At least not much of the time. It's only seeing you with Mabel that hurts."
"But, my dear, I'm married to Mabel!"
"Don't remind me of it," she said half crying.
She ran to him now, holding his hand in both of hers.
"When father comes home I'll ask him to let me go to New York."
"What would you do there?"
"Oh, play around, I've a cousin who lives there. He has lots of friends. I wouldn't need to run around alone. . . ."

"No, I'm sure you wouldn't," Bruce agreed, horrified by the idea of Mabel "playing around" in New York. "I don't think such strange measures are necessary. After all we aren't children. We are certainly intelligent enough to control our feelings." Brave words! But when he tried to say good night . . .

"I can't bear to leave you alone. It worries me to know you're upstairs alone in this big, old house."
"Nothing will hurt me, Bruce."
But when he had gone she came back into the living room frightened and bewildered. . . .
Mabel realized now that in spite of their most serious resolutions they would manage to see each other.

One or the other would always be finding an excuse.
And once they were together, no matter how firm the intentions of both to remain only friendly, the personal element would intrude.
Reducing them shortly to either a discussion of the state of their feelings or quarrelling.

Misunderstandings were more dangerous than anything else, because these could only be rectified by repeated assurance of love. What were they going to do? Alone in the living room, Mabel brooded, seeing no hope of a solution.
Easy enough to say she should not permit herself to care for another girl's husband.
The moment she saw him being sweet to Mabel, she became unreasonably, ridiculously jealous.

Altho she told herself the things which hurt most was that Mabel didn't appreciate him.
To Mabel he was a sort of badge of honor to be worn proudly in public and despised when alone. Mabel gloated over the fact that she had won a husband of some importance in the advertising world.

She liked to have money enough to do things she hadn't previously been able to afford. She liked the freedom of being Mrs. Bruce Berlon.
But she seemed to have for him no real affection nor any understanding.
Only recently at lunch with the girls she had complained bitterly because Bruce was tired so much of the time.

His idea of a pleasant evening was to work at the office or read. Mabel had discussed the subject at length, and Mabel had said nothing.
But Ruth, sweetly as always, had argued, "But, Mabel, Bruce has to work all day. You shouldn't expect him to be willing to go out every night."
Mabel and Ruth had not discussed the matter, but from little remarks Ruth made Mabel suspected that she knew all was not well between Mabel and Bruce.

Ruth's attitude, tinged with charitable reproach for the refractory wife, was rather too sympathetic toward the husband. Mabel thought it should have sickened him to have Ruth so motherly and protective.
But, as she seemed unconscious of it, she did not mention it.
Reminding herself, with a gleam of humor, that she probably resented Ruth's attitude because it was what she would have liked to do.

All this came thronging into her mind as she sat in the room, still filled with Bruce's presence.
But as usual she was unable to arrive at any conclusion.
They would just have to go on doing their best.
Bruce had insisted it wasn't necessary for her to go away. And she didn't want to go. At least not yet. Perhaps after Christmas. . . .

Ruth and Mabel arrived together the following afternoon.
"Darling, we have a sick idea," "Do tell me," Mabel smiled.
"Of course it was the Halloween party and both girls were equally in favor of it."
"Was it fun?" Ruth cried.

"Bruce and Mabel can be our chaperons."
"Mother says she'll also go out the day before and see that everything is ready," imparted Mabel.
"We'll have plenty of kindling and wood in case it turns cold. And there's an old victrola for use to dance by. We'll make it a regular party."

Mona assumed an enthusiasm she did not feel.
"Dandy, old thing! How many will you invite?"
"Oh, the regular crowd and—would you like to include Dan?" Mabel's voice was casual, but this time Mabel refused to commit herself.

"I don't think he mixes very well with the rest of them."
"Don't be selfish with your boy friend, darling! You see enough of him alone."
Mabel flushed.

Do as you please, of course! Only don't invite him for my sake."
Ruth said, "I don't think daddy will let me go if Dan is to be there."

"Don't tell your daddy, Ruth. How old are you, anyway?"
Ruth's eyes filled with tears.
"But, Mabel, I can't lie about it if he asks me."
"Ruth makes me tired," Mabel confessed afterwards. "As if she were any temptation to a man like Dan. McIntyre. Dr. Morehouse needn't worry. His precious darling will be safe."

"It does seem silly," admitted Mabel, thinking that Mabel seemed more irritable than usual. "But why ask him if there's going to be any trouble about it? We can have just as good a time."
"We can't," Mabel declared. "Our crowd needs pep. Bruce and Jim are a couple of old men and Johnnie's no fun."

Mabel seemed animated by an inner restlessness. Her eyes burned.
"Come on, let's do something," had become her battle-cry.
When she was quiet for two minutes, her face became wistful and melancholy. Mabel thought, "It's as if she doesn't care to think. I wonder if she's awfully unhappy!"
"Let's meet the boys and stay downtown for dinner," was Mabel's suggestion now.

Ruth had already gone to meet her mother. Mabel hesitated.
"I haven't seen much of Johnnie lately. I'd rather not call him."
"Ask Dan, then," insisted Mabel. "I'll call."
As she ran to the telephone instinct prompted Mabel to cry: "Better not mention the Halloween party yet."

Mabel promised and a moment later was saying, "But why don't you know my voice? How can you forget?"
Mabel shrugged.
After all, it was nothing to her. And she understood Mabel well enough to know it didn't mean much to her either. Dan was somebody different, that was all. And he had a "line." A line peculiarly soothing it seem to the perturbed soul of married women. . . .

"He's thrilled to death," Mabel said, turning from the telephone. "What! we were?" Nothing, very fussy because we may want to go to a movie afterward."
Her eyes were sparkling with animation. This was Mabel at her best. Making things happen. Managing.

With half reluctant eagerness Mabel completed her toilet. What was Bruce going to think of the engagement for tonight? After they had secretly agreed to see as little of each other as possible, Mabel had telephoned, "Oh, Bruce, Mabel and I are coming down to have dinner with you and Dan. Meet you at 6 o'clock."
As usual, Mabel would probably give Mabel credit for the idea. What would he think? Yet the knowledge that she was to see him in an hour outweighed all other considerations.

The girls entered his office together. Mabel loved his air of indifference. He permitted them to wait in the outer office for several minutes before he came to his door with charming concern.
"I'm sorry to have kept you waiting."
Mabel retorted, jokingly. "If we weren't such perfect ladies we'd have rushed in without waiting to be invited."

Mona smiled, not trusting herself to speak. So overflowing was she with admiration and pride. This was his office. The place where he worked. Sometimes until late at night. . . . She wished she were a stenographer and worked here, too. Rosalie Watson would have a chance to see him every day. She would probably take his letters. . . .

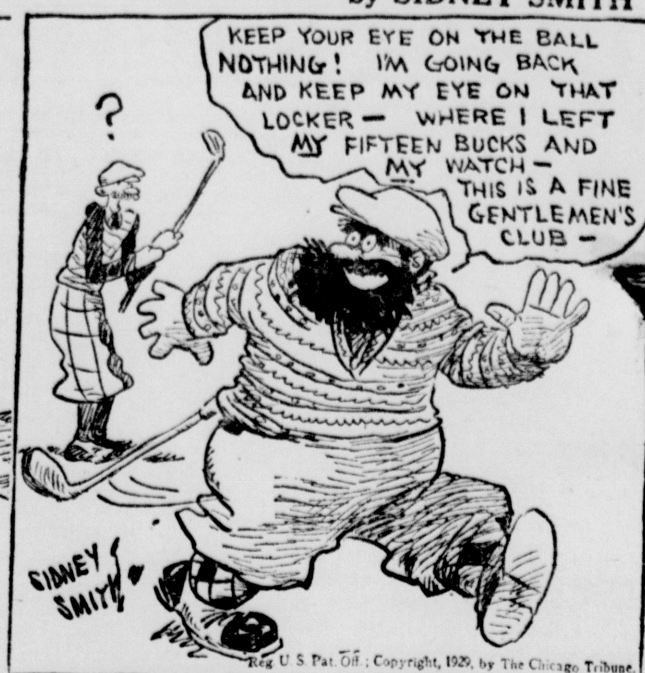

Mabel rattled merrily on. "We're to meet Dan at the Curtis. Bruce, aren't you ready to go? It's after six now."
Would Mabel be horrified if she knew what Mabel was thinking? Or would she care?

"What's the matter with you, Mabel? You haven't said a word."
"Haven't had a chance," she laughed, but guiltily, conscious of her own remissness.
It was easier after they had joined Dan. Dan was lazily, gaily, gallant. Greeting Mabel, in a hushed aside, "He, sweet thing!" Crying, "Greetings, Mabel!" Bruce Berlon, if I had a wife as beautiful as yours I'd keep her under lock and key."

Mabel giggled.
"All men aren't as dangerous as you are."
"Appearances are deceitful," quoth Dan. "The most innocent looking man may be the most deadly."
Bruce did not seem very appreciative of this cleverness but Mabel was amused. When she danced with Dan, he whispered, "What's the matter with you, Mabel? You haven't been nice to me for so long. Is anybody coming between us?"

WILL HEROISM PLAY PART IN GRAF TOUR?

During the first flight of the Graf Zeppelin to America, a torn rudder fin threatened to end the brave attempt in disaster. Only extreme heroism on the part of Knut Eekener, son of the commander who crawled to the injured fin and attempted emergency repairs saved the flight. A mechanic, top left, is shown climbing to one of the motor gondolas to make repairs in flight, while the right shows a view of the two fins which sustained structural damage from the first flight. Goldberger may also be seen.

part by adding some discomfort to the passengers because heating facilities are not in the Graf. But low, right, is how you can keep warm if you get enough heavy coats and mittens on.
